A Carson Valley Ranch. "M. R." contributes to the Carson Index a description of Senator Fred

Dangberg's ranch in Carson Valley, 16 miles south of Carson, which is one of the largest in Douglas county. The contributor says: "There is in one body of his land fourteen hundred acres, and he has this year harvested five hundred tons of grain, including seventy-five tons of wheat. Returns from a carload manufactured into flour at H. H. Beck & Co.'s mill in Reno give a yield of sixty-three pounds and a fraction over to one hundred pounds of wheat. Mr. George Hyde from Iowa, says the yield from wheat in that State is thirty-four pounds of flour from sixty pounds of wheat. If our figuring is correct the Nevada yield is one-fifteenth greater. Mr. Dangberg has cut at least one thousand tons of hay this year. A new granary is being rapidly pushed toward completion and when finished he will have ample storage capacity for one thousand tons of grain. He employs from thirty to forty men. We yesterday saw twelve men at one time shingling on one side of the new granary. Across his ranch for a mile to a mile and a half each run the East and West Forks of Carson river In the use of this stream he has the most extensive and complete system of irrigation that we have seen. It includes a great many miles of ditches, and a reservoir of eighty acres in extent. Most of his miles of ditches, and a reservoir of from willows and sage-brush. Other portions that at first would seem worthless alkali desert, by flooding when the sediment that has made it suitable for cultivation. For the first month in Spring it takes the entire attention of twelve men to irrigate the land, and for twelve men to irrigate the land, and for several months thereafter, or during the work. Mr. Dangberg, as our readers 5 are aware, has just been elected a State Senator from Douglas county by a handsome majority. He has a luxuriant home, where himself and wife are hospitable and generous, and look well to the care of their four interesting children, the eldest, a boy of sixteen, being daily expected home from school at Oakland. Mr. Dangberg built a house near his present residence in 1857, which has been destroyed by fire. He came to the State in 1853. PRIZE BOOKS FOR SUBSCRIB-

Literary Club Entertalument. At an early hour last evening the Baptist Church was crowded with those anxious to be present at the first entertainment given by the young folks' literary society. The opening chorus, "Making Hay," was given with spirit by the entire club. "Bessie of the te meet. It has been our endeavor in Lea," a solo and duet, was; sung by Mrs. Laycock and Miss Jessie Finlayments of fact, well knowing that any son. "The Face Against the Pane," a story of a little child-woman's love and saddened life, was rend by Miss Hattie Lewis. Richard Jose gave the solo, "Mary Aileen." This blought a hearty encore, an response to which he sang, 'A Flower From My Angel Mother's Grave." Mr. Parker read a humorous and sarcastic article regarding the ad- passed for news, business reports, litermination and adoration bestowed upon the works of the so-called Old Masters, by those wishing to impress their friends and the world with their knowledge of "high art." The reading was followed by a lively duet, "Wandering in the May Time," by the Misses Finlayson; after which Mr. Laycock gave a recitation. To call his selection—which Tennyson's Poems; The Arabian Nights gave the cannibalistic details of an old salt's story of a shipwreck-humorous, would require a slight stretch of the imagination; but it certainly was not the hearty recall he gave a few verses Henry Wood, Vennor's Almanac for cherished baby boy. The overture by Miss Leah Fredrick and her brothers joyed. A second selection was demanded and the performers on plane, violin and cornet, gave the beautiful me ody soi "Home, Sweet Home." "Rum's Maumo" was the title of Mr. Conkling's recitation. His interpreta-5-mile house yesterday morning. J. C. tion of the lines was so realistic that Smith found him, took him to Crane's, the scene was positively painful. In answer to the loud applause, he told the tale of an engineer's unflinching heroism in the time of mortal peril,

The pantomimes were well acted and caused a deal of laughter. Master Bertie Palmer recited a Summer idyl, entitled "Nary Mash." Each verse was in turned pictured upon the sheet in a life-like manner. "The hungry Chinaman in search of a meal," showed Grand Chancellor Mitchell has ar- the various stages of his emotions so During the intervals of preparation the audience was entertained with several brilliant instrumental solos by Miss Becca Prescott. This initial entertainment by the club was a decided success. A worthy effort in behalf of a
